Kathleen L. Brandt, attorney at Silver Golub & Teitell LLP, receives award from the American Association for Justice

STAMFORD, CT, August 18, 2010: Kathleen L. Brandt, a partner in the Stamford law firm of Silver Golub & Teitell LLP, has received the Wiedemann & Wysocki award from the American Association for Justice (AAJ). The award was presented at the recent AAJ annual convention in Vancouver, British Columbia.

The Wiedemann & Wysocki Award honors attorneys for their commitment to their profession and support for improving the civil justice system. Recipients of the award have demonstrated a deep commitment to the highest standard and duties of trial lawyers.

Attorney Brandt has focused her work at Silver Golub & Teitell on significant medical malpractice litigation, with a special interest in birth trauma. She has litigated a diverse array of medical negligence cases. Ms. Brandt is active in several professional organizations, including the Connecticut Trial Lawyers Association, AAJ, Connecticut Bar Association and the Connecticut Association of Nurse Attorneys. She currently serves on the Board of Governors and the Executive Committee for the Connecticut Trial Lawyers Association.

Prior to becoming an attorney, Ms. Brandt had a career as a registered nurse.
